COLONEL LILLY DECLINES.

Other Public Interests Prevent Him from Being a Candidate for the Legislature.

Colonel Lilly's declination as a candidate for the Legislature was received recently by Chairman Layman, of the Republican county central committee. The Colonel, under date of Nantucket, Mass., where he is spending the summer, wrote to Mr. Layman as follows:

I confirm my telegram of this date. I have resent by a friend, which gave me the first intimation that my name was being used in connection with the legislative ticket. The same paper informs me of my nomination. I am highly sensible of the honor given me, but greatly regret I was not consulted, as in that event my name would not have gone before the convention. As it is, I am compelled to decline without appeal. A differ-ent course would oblige me to abandon other work of a public nature in which I would not be

The vacancy on the ticket will soon be filled by the executive committee, which has had the names of several good citizens sub-mitted to it. Its action will be such as to sustain that of the convention in putting before the people a legislative ticket of un-exceptionable worth.

Boys with Murderous Purpose. "Piggie" Parker is what a colored lad. nine years of age, who lives with his parents, on Second street, is called by his playmates. One of them is Andrew Golden, whose home is on Third street, near Howard. They were playing together yesterday afternoon, when "Piggie" gave Andrew an ugly cut in the back with a knife. They had a trivial quarrel and little Parker took the cutting method of settling it. Golden's wound was dressed by Dr. Wilson and after that he walked home. Another instance of murderous intent by a boy was that of the cutting, in the back, of John Harding, fifteen years of age. Harding lives at No. 305 Pendleton pike, and an unknown assailant used his knife on him.

THE NOON REST FOR GIRLS

A Place Where Release from Toil Can Be Had with Best Surroundings.

Speeches from the Mayor, Ministers and Others Supporting the Efforts to Make the Days More Pleasant for Working Women.

Last evening the room in the When Block heretofore known as Equity Hall was, with the ante-rooms attached to it, opened for inspection as the place provided by the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union for the noon rest for girls. These rooms, which have been repapered and re furnished, are bright and attractive, while their convenience of access should still further commend them to those for whose use they are designed. A large and pleasant company assembled to attend the exercises of formally opening the rooms to the new purpose. Miss Duth, on behalf of the Y. W. C. T. U., called Mayor Sullivan to the chair, following a song by a quartet, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Lynn and Mr. Ketcham, and a prayer by Rev. Joseph S. Jenckes. "We have met here to-night," said the Mayor, "to inaugurate another of those enterprises which thoughtful citizens of Indianapolis have instituted in order that those who required assistance may have it. It is proposed that the working girls of Indianapolis, or, rather, of this locality. shall have a place at which they may really and truly rest from their labor-a rest that is something more than a mere cessation from work. It is hoped and believed that here they will acquire new energy and be encouraged to go out and pursue with more vigor the toil of their workday lives. I am quite certain that there is no one thing that will encourage them more than the kind hearts and kind hands that have established this rest for them." Miss Hov. of the Union, then briefly tol of the work that had been done in this city by the Y. W. C. T. U. since its organization. She noted the fact that it established the first free kindergarten here in 1885 and the Newsboys' Home in 1887, which, eighteen the Newsboys' Home in 1887, which, eighteen months later, was given up to or was replaced by Colonel Hogeland's employment scheme. She said the idea of the noon rest had come to the ladies from Providence, R. I., and Detroit, Mich., where the Y. W. C. T. U. had such rests in successful operation. She further announced that the rooms would be open each week day from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. and that all young ladies who are earning their living down town are especially invited to come at the noon hour, tables being ready for them to use for eating luncheon, while milk, tea, coffee and chocolate will be furnished at 3 cents a cup.

Mrs. Josephine R. Nichols, who next spoke, expressed her approval of the enterprise, "We talk," said she, "of the nineteenth century as the woman's century. In no one thing is this shown so much as in the care that women take of each other—a the care that women take of each other-a care that is exhibited more in America than in any other country in the world. Foreign women look with amazement upon the close friendship that exists among American women. There is no more beautiful picture than to see young women devoting leisure to making life better to those who have no leisure, but who make their own living—a most honorable thing. their own living—a most honorable thing. I know how young girls take their lunch; some in the cellars, some in the attics. It will be better for them to come here, where they will have pleasant surroundings, as-sociates and conversation."

After music by the orchestra, Mr. Will Daniels leader, Rev. Joseph A. Milburn addressed the audience. In concluding, he said: "I would suggest a plan whereby you may turn your thirty minutes' recreation to a practical and healthful respite. What you want is relaxation in its truest What you want is relaxation in its truest and highest sense. Separate into groups and read the great writers of fiction and romance. A half hour thus spent is rest, and it will be a wonderful expansion of your minds. To know Walter Scott is to comprehend a fund of information that would make any observant reader rich. Kenilworth is the romance of an epoch; so is Quentin Durward, and Old Mortality, and Ivanhoe, and so is almost every other novel that he wrote. Thackeray also is an educator. He is the Juvenal of fiction. Then there is Dickens, morbid beyond a doubt, with a certain passion Then there is Dickens, morbid beyond a doubt, with a certain passion for the garret and the gutter, yet to read Dickens is to read yourself into sympathy with the sweet and beautiful forces that seek to make this world more habitable, and beautiful, and bright. You may read and laugh, and laugh and read yourselves into the wisdom of the prophets."

Mrs. May Wright Sewall called attention to woman's work as it was three score and ten years ago, when the women of the ten years ago, when the women of the household were manufacturers—spinners, weavers, dyers, as well as soap makers and yeast-makers, doing at home what, in later years, came to be done in the factories and wholly by men. She then noted that women came into the factories and in many pursuits where men had provided no conveniences for them. She thought the noon rest would be a lesson in morality not only for manufacturers and store-keepers, but for the home. She said there were but for the home. She said there were many homes in this city where the comfort and convenience of the servants were scarcely cared for at all. In closing her remarks she noted the progress made by the Woman's Club of New Orleans, which demanded that in all shops and factories there should be proper places for toilet-rooms and for luncheon-rooms. Dr. R. C. Kelsey made a statement of the resources of the ladies engaged in the Noon Rest, which showed that, while not opulent, the means were, with economy, sufficient to carry it on. Mrs. Sewall in her speech had referred to the phrase "Yours fraternally," which, when a girl, she had seen signed to letters, and had desired to use it herself, but was told it was not for little girls nor for women; but that she was glad that later on she had been able to use the words "Yours

Sorosisly." Rev. Dr. Joseph S. Jenckes, who next spoke, cheerfully remarked that now another term had been added "Yours Wimodaughsisly," while he, as a man, was restricted to one. The Doctor went on to say that employers should be made to be more considerate of the girls in their employ, and that it should be seen to that stools were replaced behind the counters, and the young ladies be allowed to sit upon them when not waiting upon customers. "Let us," said he, "make it disreputable for any man employing young women to fail in properly caring for their comfort and convenience. Let them understand that they are dealing with heart's blood, with nervous enegry and

At the conclusion of the Doctor's remarks refreshments were served to the audience. Miss Duth announced that the first day of the Noon Rest would be to-day, and that it was hoped that many young ladies who work down town would come to the Rest, bringing their luncheons, at the noon hour,

To Be Discussed by the Lawyers.

Among the principal topics of discussion at the meeting of the National Bar Association, which is to begin here Wednesday of next week, will be those pertaining to commercial law, banking and bankruptcy. Through the respective delegations it is hoped to bring about a practical unification of the laws of the various States on these important subjects. The movement in the direction of forming an international bar association will take the shape of an effort to effect union with the Association for the Reform and Codification of the Law of Nations. This association was founded in Brussels in 1873, and is international in character. It is thought that delegates from the American body will be welcomed by it, and that its scope could be readily so enlarged as to embrace jurisprudence generally. The delegates who will come here | the White mountains. from the District of Columbia Bar Association are A. S. Worthington, S. Ross Perr W. F. Mattingly, Calderon Carlisle, H. E. Davis, G. E. Going Into Camp at South Bend. The Indiana Legion will go into camp at South Bend next Monday and remain there until the following Saturday, inclusive. Adjutant-general Ruckle will be in command of the camp. All the companies of the Legion, forty-two in number, will move Sunday night, and the camp will be regularly opened at 6 o'clock Mouday morning. | don was formerly a resident of this city.

The following general order has been issued by General Ruckle: "Companies leaving their respective stations en route to the camp of instruction, before 6 A. M., Monday, Aug. 4, 1890, will receive an allowance of 25 cents per capita for the purpose of furnishing subsistence en route, said allowance to be paid upon an approved voucher showing the actual expenditure for the purpose. Company commanders will be held responsible for failure to make suitable provision out of this allowance for breakfast en route on morning of Aug. 4, 1890. Regimental commanders are charged with general supervision of the matter of subsistance en route to camp, under special instruction from headquarters Indiana Legion."

M'CORKLE'S RACE WITH OFFICERS.

It Is Made the More Spirited by the Latter Sending Several Bullets After Him.

It was a little after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon that Bert McCorkle, white, in front of Hitzberger's saloon, corner of Seventh street and the Big Four tracks, shot at Wm. Crosby, colored. Why he did it no one could find out, as Crosby said he had done"nothin'." that McCorkle was not drunk and that he shot twice at his feet as if in fun. McCorkle, who entertained himself by firing at Fred White, also colored, a few days ago, did not, after the shooting, appreciate the funny side of it as he took to his heels and went as fast as he could up the track, with three policemen and a crowd after him. About a square away the base-ball game was going on, and the policemen were on duty there. Within a minute or two they were at the place of shooting, and in a second or two more were in the heat of a foot-race with McCorkle. The officers were Sergeants Clifford and Joyce and patrolman Peter Smith. They observed all those things that the circumstances of a well-conducted pursuit suggest, and kept the flying McCorkle down to all the race required of him. He had no time to spare, and when he saw he was losing distance on the railway ties, turned off, and, putting on an extra spurt, ran across the bottoms. Patrolman Smith sent a shot after him, and then Sergeant Joyce used his revolver, both officers taking honest aim at the fellow. Sergeant Clifford made a detour with the idea of cutting him off, but McCorkle saw this movement and changed his course toward a corn-field in the direction of the workhouse. Patrolman Smith fired at him again as he was climbing the fence about the field, and in the twinkling of an eye McCorkle was out of sight.

The officers went on, trusting to chance to bring the fellow within their range again, and it did, for just beyond the field were the work-house grounds. McCorkle, after throwing away his revolver, took that direction, and in a short time became an object of interest to Superintendent Boone and one of the guards at the insti-Boone and one of the guards at the insti-tution named. They heard the reports from the officers' revolvers, and counting upon the nature of the emergency, went out with shotgun and revolver to render assistance. Superintendent Boone had the shotgun, and, when the officers came in sight, was using it, much to Mc-Corkle's uneasiness. He tried to get out of the work-house grounds, but with the policemen on the right, left and center of his rear, and Boone and the guard in front of him, the trap closed and McCorkle was a prisoner. He was taken down to the Encaustic tileworks, where the patrol-wagon came and carted him off to the station-house. Mc-Corkle is not an amiable creature, nor was he less so when he remarked he "allowed no nigger to hit him in the mouth." He is naturally sulky, and was more so with the policemen and crowd of people about him. Like Crosby, he said he had done "nothin"," and then resumed silence, which was more cheerful than his talk. He is a step-son of Henry Patton, the negro who served a term of impresonment for marrying a white woman, McCorkle's mother.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

An Hour's Session Without the Transaction of Rusiness of Special Significance.

It was 9 o'clock before the aldermen'were called to order last night, and for more than an hour they transacted business without passing any measure of particular importance. The final estimate of the Western Paving and Supply Company on the cost of the Illinois-street asphalt pavement, at a total of $24, 754.33, was approved. A declaratory resolution for paving Pennsylvania street, from Ohio to Seventh, was also passed. The free use of Tomlinson Hall was given to the National Association for the Advancement of Science which is to meet here next month. The contract with County Treasurer Osterman to collect the delinquent city taxes. as made by Council, was approved on motion of Alderman Laut. An ordinance to prohibit the obstruction of sidewalks was read a second and third time and passed. Barney Daugerty was appointed policeman for the Blind Asylum Park. Joshua Parker and Robert Bowman, both old soldiers, were granted the free privilege of opening a mechanical and theatrical exhibition. The proposed Delaware-street improvement did not come up for consideration, and the ordinance for paving Central avenue with brick was laid over until the next meeting. The board then adjourned.

Prosecuting the Witnesses. The saloon men who pleaded guilty on charges preferred by May Gates and Annie Wallace, before Justices of the Peace Smock and Peibleman, after paying their fines, filed against the girls. The affidavits were sworn to before Justice of the Peace Martin, of Haughville, who committed the girls to jail last night. Matters Brought Before the Central Union-Good Reports from Various Trades.

The Central Labor Union, at its meeting last night, received the credentials of the following new delegates: Frank Ravenscraft, Fred Klee, Francis Crawford, coopers; O. H. Albro, Joseph P. Boyle, bookbinders; D. L. Osbourn, paper-hangers; Edward Schneider, carriage-makers; Joseph P. Turk, Joseph W. Gates, Charles Ray, Frank Beadle, printers; Louis Harmeyer, Otto Thompson, W. D. Deery, American Federation of Labor; August Weiss, architectural iron-workers. The election of a secretary being declared next in order, the sharp division, resulting in a tie vote at the last meeting, was broken by the withdrawal of Horn and Perkins, the two candidates. Albert Haynes was then elected on the second ballot. The officers were then installed, after which President Gruelle announced the standing committees as follows:

Credentials-Brown, Hooten, Bodenmiller, Arbitration-White (hair-spinners). Wilson, Gale, Foley, Hedderich.

Grievance—White (Typographical Union No. 1),

Horn, Haynes, Deery, Stumpf, Caldwell.

Legislation—Kennedy, Kelly, W. J. Smith, Klingworth, Ray. Organization-Farnham, Ross, Turk, Thomp-

Attention was called to the charge that contractors on the new buildings of the Institutions for the Blind and Deaf and Dumb are working their employes more than eight hours a day. The matter was referred to the grievance committee, with instructions to bring the offenders, if any, before the grand jury. The paper-hangers reported that two firms, one on East Washington street, and another on North Pennsylvania, are employing non-union men. This was referred to the proper commit-tee. A request was reported from several musicians for help in organizing a union. The blacksmiths also asked for assistance in increasing the number of their union members. In this connection, President Gruelle said he had received a letter from President Gompers, asking that especial attention be shown this branch of labor. He urged all delegates to go among unorganized blacksmiths and preach the cause of federation. D. F. Kennedy followed in a speech, advising the committee in charge of the benevolent institutions matter to look sharply into it, and trust to their own investigations. He said the contractors had promised to observe the law but it seems were not doing serve the law, but it seems were not doing so. Another delegate called attention to the work in progress on the school-houses.

The reports on condition of trade showed that the book-binders are all employed, the molders well satisfied, the coopers in excellent form, and that there is work for more union coopers. The carriage-makers reported this their dull season, but the union is in good shape, and the carpenters said they had some trouble, but most of the man are at work. The cigar-makers the men are at work. The cigar-makers are all busy, and nearly all of the bakers are at work. The union of the latter is growing, nine members having been taken in at the last meeting and nine more are in at the last meeting and nine more are ready to come in. The stone-cutters said all is well with them, and that they had received an increase of 1212 per cent. in wages without asking it. Other unions made similar reports. In the generalized report of the Labor-day picnic committee it was said the tinners had voted that any member who failed to take part in the parade should pay a fine of $2. Other unions were urged to show equal zeal in making the demonstration a success. The making the demonstration a success. The meeting then adjourned.

Exercises at Camp Acton. Yesterday was foreign missionary day at Acton Park. The audience, of course, was much smaller in point of numbers than on Sunday, but the services were well attended and elicited much interest. The three principal services were held at 10:30 A. M., 2:30 P. M. and 8 P. M. One of the features of the park is the singing as led by Professor Nickle. Mrs. Adams Smith, who Professor Nickle. Mrs. Adams Smith, who is especially adapted to work with children, held a children's meeting at 4 P. M., and at 7 P. M. all the campers, old and young, formed upon the green in the south front of the park and marched down the principal avenue to the pavilion. To-day will be devoted to exercises of the Home Missionary Society. To-morrow the regular camp-meeting exercises will begin, led by Rev. Dr. Bolton, of Chicago.

He Had Authority to Act. The South Bend papers speak of a man "representing himself to be a deputy United States marshal," who was in that city inquiring about various persons who had violated the census laws by failing to inform the enumerator of their property being covered by mortgage. The papers say that these men were "forced to sign some kind of a paper which was called a bond, for appearance for trial," and that they are afraid it will turn up as negotiable bank paper. The gentlemen interested need have no fear on that score, as the person who called upon them was Deputy United States Marshal Mounts, who had been sent by Marshal Dunlap to serve warrants of ar-

Resignation of Dr. Ford. Rev. J. H. Ford, D. D., who has been pastor of the Central-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, of this city, for over two years past, has tendered his resignation of the pastorate to the official board of the church. The resignation will take effect in September next, at the close of the present conference year. During his stay in this city Dr. Ford has made a host of friends, whose best wishes will follow him to a new field of labor. It is understood that Dr. Ford will be succeeded by Rev. Henry A. Buchtel, D. D., who is now pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, of Denver, Wisconsin's County Asylums. President Elder and Secretary Johnson, of the Board of State Charities, returned yesterday from a trip to Wisconsin, where they went as the guests of that State to examine some of the county asylums. They visited those in Racine, Milwaukee, Dane, Jefferson and Iowa counties, and were much impressed with the system of treatment at these institutions of the chronic insane.

Non-Resident Patients.

It is charged that a number of non-residents have received treatment at the City Hospital, and as a city ordinance provides that only residents of the city shall be admitted to the institution, the Council hospital board proposes to investigate the charge. It is said that the most of these non-residents are women who are sent from the Home of the Friendless.

The Fresh Air Station.

The fresh air station at Fairview Park will be kept open until September, and only $200 more is needed to enable the Union to pay all expenses of the station until that time. The managers of the union say great good has been accomplished at the park, in restoring little ones to health. During the two weeks the station has been open sixtynine children have been cared for.

Letter-Carriers' Organization. The letter-carriers of the city have organized, with the following officers: S. S. Tolin, president: Frank Faris, secretary; R. H. McGinnis, treasurer. R. H. McGinnis will represent the association at the national convention, to be held at Boston, Mass., next month.

Cases Continued.

The case of assault and battery with intent to kill against James Coy was continued by Mayor Sullivan, yesterday, This was done to wait the result of the wounds of McPeek, whom Coy shot. A similar case against John Sullivan, who hit his wife with a coupling-pin, was also continued.

Committee on City Affairs.

The Council committee on city affairs has devised a system of accounts for the street commissioner's office. It provides for a registry of streets and a division of the city into twenty-five districts, a separate account being required for each district.

All this the committee thinks will show in detail where and for whom repairs are pended. Street Commissioner De Ruiter, at the meeting of the committee yesterday. was requested to follow this system. The committee also heard the complaints of Merrill-street property-holders who object to having estimates for improvements on that street allowed. There are several houses that project over the property line, and the citizens objecting want them set back before the street improvement is paid for. The matter will be referred to the

An Unterrified Editor,

A federal election law has no terrors for the Nashville American. It snaps its fingers at the whole outfit of federal laws, and makes a kitchen-door-mat of the federal Constitution. It would like to see the federal government undertake to enforce a law to secure honest elections in Tennessee. Just once. Guess the federal government wouldn't want to try it more than once. Betcher life. Know who's talking to you? Well, be gahd, sah, it's the Nashville American, and it eats two or three men every morning for breakfast. Bring on your fed-eral government if you want it chewed up and spit out of the window.

NEW PENSION LAW.

THOSE WHO ARE ENTITLED UNDER THIS ACT-Dependent Parents of all Soldiers who have died, leaving no widow or child: Provided the death of the soldier was the result of his military service.

Soldiers who are now Disabled from any cause, not due to vicious habits, and who served ninety days or more and were honorably discharged. Dependent Widows and Children under sixteen years of age of all soldiers who served ninety days or Children under Sixteen years of age are entitled in their own right, if the widow is dead or has remarried. Children of deceased soldiers who are permanently belpless by reason of disease, deformity, insanity or other cause, are entitled to pension during life, and can get a pension even if they are over sixteen years of age.

Persons drawing pension under the old law can take the benefit of the new.

Pension commences from the date of filing the application in the Pension Office.
